To Maintain

- Perimeter Shooting Accuracy: You made 1 three-pointer out of 1 attempt (100%), which occurred at the end of a stint in the 2nd quarter (Q2 07:14), maintaining high offensive efficiency at the end of long-range possessions.
- Rebounding Presence: You collected 4 rebounds (2 defensive and 2 offensive) in just 13 minutes, placing you in the 59th percentile of the league and indicating a strong fight under the boards as a complementary percentile for the point guard position.

To Improve

- Low Passing Volume Management: You recorded a single assist in 13 minutes (36th league percentile), bringing your passing output below your career average of 3.7 assists, and hurting your ability to run the team's offense.
- Turnover Control and Press Defense in the 4th Quarter: You turned the ball over once while dribbling and committed a foul in the 4th quarter (Q4 08:14, Q4 08:10), metrics that led to unnecessary defensive pressure and a partial loss of the lead in the decisive stint.
- Efficiency on Drives to the Paint: You made 1 out of 3 two-point shots (33%), including a missed layup in the 1st quarter (Q1 02:29) and another miss in the 4th quarter (Q4 09:41), which prevented you from generating a scoring volume matching the core of your role as a leading guard.

This Week's Drills

1. The Biggest Leverage: Practice quick decision-making and reading the defense in pick-and-roll situations to raise your assist volume to at least 3 per game in your next 15 minutes.
2. Take 50 daily shots from mid-range and driving into the paint with an emphasis on finishing over a defender, in order to improve your 2-point shooting percentage above 50%.

3. Practice individual defense without creating unnecessary contact in the opening seconds of the stretch, with the goal of finishing games without unnecessary fouls in the fourth quarter.
